Family Broadcasting Corporation, Lesea Inc., and LeSEA Global Feed the Hungry
Granted Summary Judgment By Federal Court
*Ruling Allows Dr. Lester Sumrall Legacy Website to Relaunch

South Bend, IN- Family Broadcasting Corporation announced today it will soon relaunch the Dr. Lester Sumrall Legacy Collection of Works or drlestersumrall.com, a free website dedicated to the life and ministry of the company's founder, Dr. Lester Sumrall. The news comes immediately on the heels of a resounding victory via summary judgement dismissing a lawsuit challenging certain intellectual property rights related to the deceased minister. The website had previously been taken down as a result of the litigation.

"After numerous attempts to reconcile with the people responsible for this frivolous and protracted harassment campaign targeting Family Broadcasting Corporation, LeSEA Global Feed the Hungry, and LeSEA Inc., we were left with no choice but to resolve these matters through federal proceedings, just as we've done in other jurisdictions" said Drew Sumrall, CEO of FBC. Many years ago, at the outset of this unfortunate dispute, we stated we would present the absurdity of these claims, and that is precisely what we have done. The Court's ruling is another sobering reminder that the pursuit of imprudent litigation is not the same as the pursuit of truth or correctness as a matter of law. We can now put this unnecessary legal drama behind us and move forward with our corporate objectives unimpeded, including offering these timeless materials free of charge once again."
